

Ambitious Quality Manager

International industrial enterprise in rapid growth

As Quality Manager at Hoyer you will become the focal point for all quality management and control in Hoyer – both in relation to the internal quality processes/procedures and in relation to the interaction with the key suppliers. You report to the COO and you are the manager of the Quality department including 3-4 employees in Denmark and 7 in China.

Your main task will be leadership and development of a well-functioning Quality department, that – apart from solving a variety of tasks – also has to evolve concurrently with the company's growth and development. The department is responsible for developing and maintaining ISO 9001:2015 and ISO 14001:2015 as well as conducting relevant internal and external audits and customer visits to OEM customers.

The department plays a key role in implementing new products and new suppliers seen from a quality perspective – and we expect a significant expansion of the product range within the coming years. It is also the Quality department which is responsible for treatment of complaints which is among other systems handled through a strong RMA-system including deviation reports and 8D reports. The quality work is generally based on a solid and detailed data basis, which the department both helps to collect, utilize and further develop.

Qualifications

- Education: Engineer or similar
- Management experience
- Experience with quality and problem solving tools, for example from Lean and Six Sigma
- Experience with ISO standards and audits
- Experience from an international company
- High level of skills in English language.
- Knowledge of electric motors is an advantage but not a requirement

You are impassioned about quality and you handle the tasks with great drive. With your open and positive work style, you manage to balance between being a proactive and constructive partner alongside maintaining a close and systematic control and follow-up. You are proactive and focus on the business value you create. You thrive on a broad interface internally and externally and you can communicate at all organizational levels. You can remain firm when required and are hands-on on relevant tasks. There will be extensive traveling in connection with supplier visits primarily in Asia and visits to Hoyer's department in China.

You will be part of an international company where swift decision processes and an informal everyday atmosphere have fostered an agile and dynamic performance culture which has achieved significant results over the years. You will have ample room to maneuver within your area of responsibility and good opportunities for professional and managerial development as the department continuously receives new tasks.
